

Immediate Release

January 2013

ACL, Inc. is pleased to announce the appointment of Steve Allen to the newly created position of Vice President of Marketing and Innovation. Steve's addition to the ACL team will enable the company in enhancing, expanding, and promoting the Staticide brand. With his expertise, Steve will introduce growth strategies, such as new product lines in non-static control markets.

Steve comes to us with extensive experience in the microelectronics, telecommunications, and critical environment markets. At ITW Chemtronics Steve was the General Manager responsible for the development and execution of proven short and long term organic top-line growth designed to drive incremental profitable growth.

ACL looks forward to Steve's insightful contributions in the areas of new product development and market growth.
